2. Faculty Staffing Ranking Recommendations 2023-2024 - David Drury
(M/S/C Allyn Leon/Elizabeth Trevino) to approve the faculty staffing ranking recommendations for 2023-2024 as presented.
Final Action: Motion carries
Discussion:
- Hope Davis expressed concern that the Music faculty member was prioritized so low. This should have been listed as a replacement since it has been requested as such in the past.
- At this time the position was put in as a new position.
- David Drury noted that there was a decision made several years ago by the curriculum and instruction committee that when positions were not filled after 2 years they would lose the replacement designation and that was why this one went in as a new position.
- Moving forward members requested that notes be included on the prioritization document when members have comments. (For this example, include a note that although the position is listed as new, the department has requested it as a replacement for several years)

H. Discussion Items
- None at this time.

I. Presentation
1. Canvas Limitations - Xochitl Tirado
Changes that are coming regarding Canvas courses - Winter 2023
- These changes are due to security issues.
- Ability to add people to your course will be removed, the reason is due to faculty adding students to Canvas but not adding them to their official roster which causes problems later. Now if faculty want to add someone, they will need to submit a ticket and the Ed Techs will all them. Tickets will need to be submitted to add embedded tutors and conversation partners.
- Create new course option will be turned off. Unauthorized courses have been created and there is limited space, this will alleviate those issues. Faculty will be able to keep sandbox courses as long as they include the word sandbox and the subject and course number. Moving forward if you need a sandbox course a ticket can be submitted and one will be created.
- All faculty and staff should be using their IVC email in Canvas.
- Ability of students to change their names will be removed. Students should use the appropriate form to change their name through A&R.
- An email will be sent to faculty with the changes.
